

CONTENTS

Ewa Nowicka, From Private Homeland to Ideological Ties: The Aromanians—A People Who Don't Need a State	3
Edyta Radzewicz, Irish Travellers and Ethnic Minority Status	21
Kamila Fiałkowska, Michał P. Garapich, Elżbieta Mirga-Wójtowicz, A Critical Analysis of Academic Silence, or Why the Romani Migrate (Out of Our Field of Vision) ...	39
Maciej Witkowski, Ethnography with a Heart: Anthropological Knowledge about Relations between the Romani and Other People	69
Ewa Michna, Silesians between Political Subjectivity and the Sense of Objectification	87
Katarzyna Warmińska, Nationalism or Identity Politics? The Example of the Kashubs ..	105
Michał Łyszczarz, The Polish Tatars in Public Media in Podlasie	121
Andrzej Sadowski, Ethnicity and National Identity: On Pluralist Nations, Using the Example of Countries in East Central Europe	135
*
Marta Cobel-Tokarska, Marcin Dębicki, An Idea Forged in “Mordor”: Ziemowit Szczerek’s Conceptualization of Central Europe	155
*
Daniel Bąk, The Male-to-Male Sex of Straight Guys: A Socio-Cultural Guide on How to Have It and Not Become a Gay Man	185
Agnieszka Iwaszkiewicz, Should Brandon Sullivan Be Ashamed? The Border between Pathology and Life	197
Paweł Pieniążek, The Transgressions of Modernity	203
Barbara Józefik, The Discourses of Psychotherapy and Understanding Social Reality	213
Kamila Biały, Understanding Limits—the Limits of Understanding: Post-Conference Remarks on the Links between Psychotherapy and Society	223
*
Aneta Krzewińska, Agnieszka Kretek-Kamińska, On the Thirtieth Anniversary of the Death of Professor Jan Lutyński	233
Jan Lutyński, Apparent Activities	239
*
Books Review	251